EASTERN EDITORS IN GLEICHEN

Despatch 1500 Words to Associated Press

The editors and correspondents who visited Gleichen last Saturday and who are on a tour through Western Canada, under the auspices of the Canada West magazine are as follows:

Robt. R. Jones, managing editor Chicago Inter-Ocean. Formerly Washington correspondent.

Richard Henry Little, Chicago Record Herald. President of the Press Club of Chicago. War correspondent for the Record Herald in the Japanese-Russian, Philippine and Chinese wars. Lecturer.

William Hard, of Everybody's Magazine. Formerly editorial writer for the Chicago Tribune. Political economist.

Herbert Quick, editorial writer Scripps-McRae Press Association; author "Double Trouble" and "The Broken Lance," etc. For several terms, mayor of Sioux city, Iowa. Formerly chairman of the Iowa State Democratic Committee. Close personal friend of William J. Bryan.

Geo. D. Richards, associate editor of "The World Today," of which publication he is one of the owners.

Elliott Flower, author of "The Spoils man," etc., contributor to Collier's and the Saturday Evening Post. On his present trip he will write a series of articles on weather conditions in Canada for the Chicago Tribune.

B. F. Barton, managing editor, Home Herald (weekly) and World Events (monthly).

Herbert Vanderhoof, editor, Canada West.

They arrived in Gleichen in a private car by No. 1, accompanied by Messrs. J. S. Donnie and C. W. Peterson. After a visit to some Indian tents they spent until dusk driving among the farmers. Later they pulled the latch-string on our Palace door and took the reporter to their car where with something stronger than aqua para the prosperity of Gleichen was toasted. Then the following interviews were secured, comprising about 1500 words, a copy of the same being telegraphed from Gleichen as an Associated Press despatch:

No Possibility of Crop Failure

"The wonder of it all is that the province of Alberta has not 20,000,000 instead of 250,000 people," said Robert B. Jones, managing editor of the Chicago Inter-Ocean. "Calgary and other territory to the east along the Bow River Valley has millions of acres waiting to be turned into magnificent farms. Nowhere else in the world, surely not on this continent, is to be seen the equal of the Bow River Valley irrigation project."

"Stretching along the Canadian Pacific railway for more than one hundred miles are lands of the richest productive power placed beyond all possibilities of crop failure, with water in abundance at every farmer's door, to laugh to scorn the fear of drought and add to the already record breaking yields."

"Farmers of the middle west who have prayed for rain and it came not, while their crops withered, should come into this wonderful land in the Bow river valley, where forty-five bushels of fine wheat, one hundred bushels of oats and seventy-five bushels of barley are not exceptional to those men who are struggling to make $125 and $150 land pay a fair return on its valuation."

"I would say sell your quarter section in Illinois, Indiana or Ohio, and come to the Bow river valley and buy a thousand acres, when your sons and daughters will be assured a competence."

Law Well Observed

William Hard, of Everybody's Magazine, said: "A new kind of reciprocity with Canada was outlined to me by one of the 60,000 immigrants from the United States who came into Canada during the year 1907. This man is a successful farmer in the Gleichen irrigation district. His sentiments seem largely to be those of all former citizens of the United States who are now becoming citizens of the Dominion of Canada."

"We are giving them some new ideas about being good farmers," he said, "and they are giving us some new ideas about being good citizens. They have a law up here against taking whiskey into the Indian reservations. One of our fellows was caught on a reservation with a bottle on him and it cost him $50. One of the Canadian mounted policemen found him, and let me tell you they find everybody that tries to go up against the laws of the country."

"On Saturday night every bar room gets closed at exactly seven o'clock. Why? Because it's the law, and it's the same with every other law. There isn't a bad man in the whole district, and a woman can come home from town to the farm at midnight all by herself, if she wants to. That's Canada's idea of how to run a frontier; they have certainly taught us a lot."

American Immigrants Workers

"On the other hand we are running their farms for them better than any other class of people they've got. I guess I can say this without boasting and the Canadians appreciate us. We turn out to celebrate Dominion Day and they turn out to help us celebrate the 4th of July. They are glad to have us help them farm the country. They know how to govern and we know how to work; they maintain law and order and give us a fair show and I'm satisfied."

"My children will stay here."

"Will they be Canadians?" I said.

"Well," he said "they are going to Canadian schools and studying Canadian history books."

Sugar Beet Raising

Richard R. Little of the Chicago Record Herald, and president of the Press Club, of Chicago, said, "The beet sugar industry in the Canadian Pacific irrigation block has already reached great development under irrigation. The price paid to farmers for sugar beets in Southern Alberta averages five dollars per ton, this is a good price considering that the average price paid for beets for the whole of the United States according to the last census was only $4.18 per ton."

The rich soil in the irrigation block contains just sufficient sand to be the most favorable for sugar beet growing. Farmers in the tract told me today that they raised between sixteen and twenty tons of sugar beet to the acre. With the establishment of factories in the irrigation block which are already being planned, transportation cost being saved to the farmers and the beets netting him profits of $5 to $5.50 a ton at the station it would seem that the sugar beet industry of this tract will become one of the greatest features."

Marvelous Growth of Alfalfa

Hiram W. Green, editorial writer of the American Press said: "The days' journey through Southern Alberta has been a succession of most agreeable and convincing surprises. The extensive irrigation system here is marvellous and the soil and crop development much greater than can be imagined by those who have never had an ocular demonstration."

"A striking evidence of the wide and varied possibilities of irrigation is the marvellous growth of sugar beets and alfalfa. In addition to these crops there are the wheat and oats which are admitted to be unequalled anywhere. Here too in my opinion is one of the finest stock feed and finishing countries in the world. This has developed Alberta beef and mutton and as is the history of irrigated sections the bulk of the products of the soil from the irrigated lands will be used for live stock feeding. There are now in hay and forage 3,668,000 acres and a finer and better lot of live stock grown and fattened and the products of this district exceeds anything I have ever seen shown in the States. It is evident that the Canadian Pacific irrigation block is destined to produce the feeding stuffs to finish the live stock of the whole province of Alberta and will thus be to Western Canada what the corn raising belt is to the Western States."

Schools a Revelation

Elliott Flower, the magazine writer, said: "Two things impressed me particularly today. The character and the number of school buildings and the tremendous significance of the irrigation project extending from Calgary to Medicine Hat. Of the latter I cannot speak at length now, but the crops grown are certainly revelations to the man who comes into this country for the first time. In the matter of the schools they seem to be given practically first place in the plans of even the smallest towns as they should be and nothing can be of greater importance to the future of the country."

Superiority of Winter Wheat.

Bruce Barton, associated editor of the Home Herald, and of World's Evening, said: "The irrigation project which the Canadian Pacific has undertaken in Alberta is wonderful, judged by any standard. It seems to me, however, that it can only be estimated very crudely in dollars or acres. Its value deserves rather to be stated in terms of human prosperity and happiness. The magnificent thing about the undertaking is that it is making it possible for thousands of people, many of them coming out of most moderate circumstances to live and grow rich on land where it was formerly thought possible to raise only cattle."

Three Crops of Alfalfa

George D. Richards, of the World Today, said: "I am surprised to find alfalfa, which I have always understood to be a criterion for the desirability of irrigated land, growing a third crop in the irrigated sections of the Canadian Pacific irrigated project. That Colorado has 85 per cent of its irrigated land producing alfalfa is a good indication of its value. When it becomes known that this kind of forage plants can be successfully raised in this part of Canada, there is certain to be a great impetus given the live stock industry."

The Department of Agriculture is endeavoring to secure a share of the harvest help coming to the west this season. Arrangements have been made with the railway authorities to ticket a sufficient number of harvest hands to Alberta points to ensure a safe harvesting of the crop. The department has sent a representative to Winnipeg in order to see that the province gets its fair quota of men and also to prevent a larger number going to any one point than is necessary to meet the demand. As these men will only be ticketed to the station, farmers requiring help should leave their name and location with their nearest railway agent or arrange with friends in town to secure and send out to them the help they need.

The Board of Trade requests the farmers of this district to save samples of their best products for exhibition.

Mrs. J. H. Gooderham Passes Away

Died—At Idlewild, Blackfoot Indian Agency, Gleichen, Alberta, on Saturday, August 23rd, 1908, Margret McKinnon, beloved wife of J. H. Gooderham, aged 46 years.

This announcement was received by hundreds of friends throughout this district with the deepest feelings of regret, to whom the departed was intimately known.

Mrs. Gooderham had not enjoyed good health for many months, but it was not believed that her departure was so near at hand. About the middle of last month she left here to visit friends in Kutawa, Sask., and a week later, Mr. Gooderham was summoned to her side, where he remained until she improved somewhat and then together they made the long drive of 80 miles to the nearest station, arriving home Thursday morning, to the great joy of their six children. Mrs. Gooderham was then able to drive home and converse with her family, but during the following night again became very ill and passed quietly away at 5:30; the end coming so peacefully that the good wife and loving mother seemed but to sleep.

The funeral took place at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon from Idlewild, where the Rev. Mr. Lind conducted a short impressive service, and then one of the largest processions ever witnessed in Gleichen wended its way to the cemetery, where the last sad rites were performed and the remains laid to rest. The pallbearers were all members of the Agency staff, comprising Messrs. Markle, Dickenson, Jones and Breiston. The casket was completely covered with the many beautiful and costly floral offerings, among which the following were noted:

Mr. Gooderham, wreath, "My Dear Wife".
Family, wreath, "Our Dear Mother."
Mr. Yates, wreath.
Blackfoot Agency Staff, star.
Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn, anchor.
Dr. and Mrs. Rose, wreath.
Mr. and Mrs. Beach, wreath.
Mr. and Mrs. James, cross.
Mrs. Cosgrave, wreath.
Mr. and Mrs. Markle, cross.
Mr. and Mrs. Dickenson, cross.
Mrs. and Miss Larkin, cross.
Mrs. McEwen and family, star.
Miss J. Burne, cross.
Mrs. Griesbach, anchor.
Ladies' Aid Presbyterian church, cross.
Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Laycock, wreath.
Mr. Shore, star.
Mr. and Mrs. Jones, wreath.
Mrs. Burne and family, wreath.

Deceased was a faithful member of the Presbyterian church for many years and an untiring church-work, whose work and good life will live in the memories of her family and friends for long years to come. It may be well to only add that The Call joins the many friends in extending to the lonely husband child a deeper sympathy than mere words can express.

A CARD OF THANKS

Editor Gleichen Call.

Dear Sir,—On behalf of my family and myself I desire through the columns of your paper to most sincerely thank our friends for the many acts of kindness shown us during the first hours of our sad bereavement, and we shall ever remember the manner in which our friends have done their utmost to alleviate our great sorrow.

Faithfully yours

J. H. GOODERHAM.

Gleichen, Alberta, August 27, 1908.

The Chicago editors have come and gone and Gleichen will benefit thereby. That they were pleased with their visit it is only necessary to say that they could not wait for the mails, but telegraphed fifteen hundred words from Gleichen Saturday evening, and two of them said that they had bought land here for themselves, making a cash payment on it. The Call was put on their lists and will receive a copy of all their writings, which we hope to produce in these columns, at least as much of it as possible. Some said the finest crops they had seen were here; while all unhesitatingly admitted they had seen nothing better on their entire journey. This we believe is the only irrigation district they have or will visit on the trip and it may be expected, therefore, that this district will receive a great amount of attention from their pens, as subjects of news and magazine articles and stories. Personally they are as jolly a lot of fellows as ever crossed the prairie and The Call does not regret the preparations made for their reception at this Palace.

Everything points to prosperous times for this district and our little city this fall and winter, and it is up to us, one and all, to do our best to make the best of the opportunities coming this way. It will be well to get together more frequently and talk the situation over. While it might not do much to boom the town, yet we should get better acquainted with one another and with one another's wants and wishes. A community of spirit creates an enthusiasm which is very apt to display itself in some direction. The old saying that everything comes to him who waits, may have been true in the old time, but under the spirit of the present age if a person wants a thing he must go after it.

We already have a board of trade that has done some excellent work in the past, yet could have done more and better had the attendance been better. Then it may be pardonable to point out a few facts in the hope that they may be remedied in the future and in the hope that they will be accepted in the kindly spirit meant.

It is now many months since some of our business men have attended the board meetings, and others have attended only when their interests were likely to be effected. Thus leaving the widest interests in the hands of a few, who may later be found fault with by the many. No doubt some have excellent reasons for being absent, and there is no doubt with some it is sometimes carelessness.

This should not be and must not be longer the case if this place is to become the business centre it aspires to and if we are to make the best of our natural advantages and location.

With a united Gleichen many things can be done to draw trade to town, build up the place, beautify it, and make it a desirable place to reside in. United the many requirements of the farmers and ranchers can be aided, especially in securing for them bridges and good roads over which they may here market their products.

Unity is the greatest asset a new town can possess. It is the one thing above all others the stranger likes to see; for then he knows he has pleasant associates and the communities interests will surely advance.

Gleichen is not the only place on the map where the people do not agree in all matters, and so let us agree to disagree in some things and take up the next matter to hand. Fact is, we have hardly a man who does not see our bright future ahead and who is not ready to talk himself hoarse extolling our advantages and prospects. Our nearest city, Calgary, is in the same class, only worse. Up there they fight, squabble and talk liable suits until one tires reading of the antics of their public men, yet every mother's son in that city will "holler" like mad if you say aught against that hub of the universe.

Here in Gleichen we have a nice "hub" of our own. Let us get together and make it spin merrily. We are the hub of the biggest irrigation project of all this continent and already the whole world is learning to swing into a knowledge of it. Yet many are unaware that in our wake we have thousands of acres of non-irrigable land that produces the finest crops grown out of doors—here's to unity.

AID FOR DROWNING.

Approved Method of Applying Artificial Respiration.

The most approved method of resuscitation in cases of drowning and asphyxiation was described by Professor Edward A. Schafer of Edinburgh, Scotland, in a paper on artificial respiration, read to the section on surgery and anatomy of the American Medical Association. Professor Schafer was chairman of a special committee of the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society of London appointed to investigate the subject, and his paper was the result of that body's inquiry.

The method is one which can be used by one person without fatigue and make possible resuscitation in a case either of drowning or asphyxiation.

"Lay the patient flat on his face," said Professor Schafer. "This throws the tongue forward out of the mouth, leaving the air passages unobstructed, and does away with the necessity for holding the tongue. It also permits the water to run from the mouth. 'Kneel beside the patient and place the hands one on each side of the backbone in the small of the back, about the line of the lowest ribs."

"Then by throwing weight forward on the hands a vertical pressure is effected with little fatigue to the operator."

"The downward pressure should last three seconds. This empties the lungs. 'The pressure should then be stopped for two seconds, and the lungs will naturally refill. This process should be repeated twelve times a minute."

"Careful tests by a spirometer show that this method gives more than the normal amount of air to the patient, while other methods give much less than the amount ordinarily breathed."

KEEP THE MOUTH CLEAN.

Sound Teeth and Gums Prime Requisites For Good Health.

"Don't scrub your consciences; scrub your teeth," was the substance of the advice given by Dr. M. H. Fletcher in the American Medical Association's section on stomatology. He read a paper on "Diseases of the Alveolar Process." "The gums should be rubbed with a stiff bristle toothbrush," declared the doctor. "The gums should be rubbed as well as the teeth. The gums should be hard and tough, as hard as the palm of a person's hand. No care of the teeth seems to be the almost universal rule. One of my patients put it very nicely to me after I had explained to her the proper methods. 'I thought I had been cleaning my teeth all these years,' she said, 'but I find that I have only been cleaning my consciences.'"

"If the mouth could at all times be kept perfectly clean there would never be any decayed teeth or visits to the dentist. As it is, much that is paid to the dentist could be saved by proper care. Good teeth and healthy gums are prime requisites for good health."

A Practical Rotation.

"I suppose you follow a system of rotation in your agricultural operations," casually observed the high browed graduate of the modern agricultural college.

"Follow what kind of a system?" inquired honest, hard handed Uncle Ezra.

"A scheme of rotation. That is, take that large field there. You put that to one purpose one year, another purpose the next year and still different the third year, and so on."

"Oh, yes, I see your meaning. Well, sir, last year we used the proceeds of that field to give Elizabeth her musical education; this year the proceeds went to pay boot in a horse trade that I had the honor of engineering, and next year I intend that field shall give me a trip down to the city and build a new concrete smokehouse. After that I'm countin' on lettin' the youngest boy, Henry Abelson, farm the field on shares to kinder get his hands into the work."

Schooling Railroad Men.

A school car fitted with signaling apparatus has been in use for a short time on the Union and Southern Pacific lines for the instruction of employees, and in order to ascertain just what amount of benefit had been derived by the men they were subjected to a series of surprise tests. Eighteen kinds of regular signals were employed, besides some specials, including torpedoes, fuses, stop flags, reversed lights, extinguished lights, semaphore arms at danger and lantern and hand signals. Twelve hundred and fifty-eight tests were made, and the engine men showed an efficiency of nearly 99 per cent. Of the small number of violations none was of a character to have caused any serious accident.

Treatment of Dog Bites.

The immediate treatment of dog bites or scratches is very important. These should be squeezed and sucked and pressed so as to make the blood come freely, then should be burned to the very bottom with a blunt, partly burnt match soaked wet with pure carbolic or nitric acid, to be followed by the Pasteur treatment if the physician thinks a case suspicious.

Loafers' Paradise.

The Rev. T. P. Radford-Kirk, a Bath curate, says he knows no town where charity is so much abused as in Bath. If he were to be born again, and under poverty-stricken circumstances, with the power of deciding on the place, he would choose Bath because he could live comfortably on the charity of the public without doing a decent day's work.

Poetic Friend—Some one says a baby in a house is a wellspring of joy.

Exasperated Young Parent—Well, don't you believe it. As an element of enjoyment a baby in a house is a screaming nuisance.

TO SETTLE LABOR DISPUTES.

Scotch Railway Men to Try the Arbitration Plan.

The following information concerning a scheme of conciliation and arbitration between the representatives of labor and the Scotch railway companies for the settlement of questions relating to rates of wages and hours of labor is furnished by Consul Maxwell Blake of Dunfermline:

It is proposed to group the various grades of employees into sections, each section to choose by election one or more representatives for each district, and these will compose the employees' sectional board to meet the representatives of the company. Under the scheme there will also be formed conciliation boards for each company to deal with questions of wages and hours of labor which cannot be mutually settled through the usual channels.

In the event of the two boards indicated failing to arrive at an agreement the subject of difference is then referred to arbitration. The appealed reference is to go before a single arbitrator appointed by agreement between the two boards, or, in default of an agreement, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Commons and the lord president of the court of sessions, or one of them. The decision of the arbitrator shall be final and binding on all parties.

Each side of the conciliation board is to elect its own chairman. Any proposal agreed to by a sectional board and rejected by the employees is referred to the central board (composed of fourteen employees' representatives, two from members of each sectional board), and a proposal agreed to by the central board and rejected by the employees is referred to arbitration. A proposal agreed to by a sectional board and rejected by the employees is referred to the central board, and a proposal agreed to by the central board and rejected by the employees is referred to arbitration. Where the central conciliation board fail to agree an arbitrator is appointed, and where the central conciliation board have agreed, but the decision is not accepted by the directors or employees, the arbitrator is called in as before.

The total number of employees' representatives on each sectional board is eight, two from the employees in the section in each of the four designated electoral districts. The central board is composed as indicated. The company's representatives on each sectional and central board do not exceed the employees' representatives.

Are Lordly Chauffeurs.

Since it has become usual for younger sons of the English aristocracy to engage in the automobile business, it is extremely difficult for the ordinary purchaser to distinguish between the professional chauffeur and the aristocratic driver who occasionally exhibits a car to a client. There are at least thirty young Englishmen of noble families studying the fine points of motoring and taking customers for trial runs, with the result that some amusing mistakes are made.

Recently a young cousin of the Duke of Beaufort was instructed by his employer to exhibit a car to one of the London newly rich, the wife of a retired tradesman. The young man made himself agreeable, and when the car returned to the big house in Belgrave, the customer alighted and, pressing a half-crown upon the chauffeur, said: "There my lad, and take care not to spend it foolishly!"

The young man drove back to his employer, a son of Lord Langstock, and indignantly recounted his experience.

"Well, you can consider yourself jolly lucky," was the consoling rejoinder. "The last time I saw the lady she gave me only a shilling."

Queen's Chinese Chow Dog.

Not the least important passenger by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Ireland, which arrived at Liverpool from Canada recently, was a fine specimen of the Chinese chow dog, a gift from King Edward's equestrian, Col. Sir Henry Knollys, to Queen Alexandra. In order to acquire the dog Capt. M. H. Hamer of the 12th Baluchistan Indian army, undertook, on behalf of the donor, a journey of 12,000 miles. Connected with the Indian frontier forces, Capt. Hamer went from the Afghanistan hill station with which he was associated into the Chinese empire, and was there successful in obtaining a beautiful specimen of the chow dog, which in build and style of coat, excepting the color, which is a light brown, somewhat resembles the popular Pomeranian. Having acquired the dog, Capt. Hamer continued his journey to Vancouver and thence to Montreal, where he embarked on the Empress of Ireland.

An Ancient Drinking Game.

Drinking bouts have been accompanied among all peoples by curious diversions. Cottabus is the most classical, having been in vogue over most parts of the ancient world. The player lay on a couch and without moving his position attempted to throw from his goblet a few drops of wine at a mark in a high curve without spilling any of the liquor. The mark consisted generally of a little image of Hermes, placed on a bronze saucer, which sometimes floated on water, so that until it was filled by a sufficient quantity of wine to sink it the game continued. To play cottabus well was a mark of good breeding in Athens.

How to Preserve Eggs.

Dissolve four ounces of beeswax in eight ounces of warm olive oil. Dip the tips of the fingers into the solution and anoint the eggs all over. The oil will be absorbed and the shell and pores filled up with the wax. Pack in bran or sawdust and put away in a cool place. Eggs treated in this way will keep two years.

A Big Difference.

She—What's the difference between a dimple and a wrinkle?
He—Oh about thirty or forty years.

THE SCHOOL MEETING

The school meeting held last Friday evening was fairly well attended and all considered passed off quietly and apparently satisfactorily.

The trustees, Messrs. Beaupre, Knudson and Telford, were present. The latter, acting as chairman, called the meeting to order and in explaining the object for which it was called announced that the secretary, Dr. Rose, was prepared to answer any questions the ratepayers might ask regarding the building of the new school.

Mr. Henroth wanted to know why there was not a poll on the $15,000 school. This was rather avoided but brought on the statements that the new building would be a two-story, solid brick structure, lathed and plastered throughout, 65x32 feet, divided into four rooms, each capable of seating 40 pupils or 100 altogether. It being the intention to equip only three rooms at present and the other when required. The sum of $12,000 was to be borrowed at 6 per cent, repayable in 20 consecutive equal annual payments. The secretary could not say what the tax rate would be, explaining that this year the rate was 5 mills on $400,000 and at the rate Gleichen was building up at present might reach half a million next year, but believed that with the new school it would not require more than 8 mills and possibly 7 would be sufficient. He stated an architect had been consulted and the trustees were assured that the school could be built and equipped for $12,000.

Mr. Griesbach thought a much cheaper building would suffice and the taxes would be too high.

Mr. Trego favored a good school but believed taxes should be kept as low as possible.

Mr. McKie told of ranchers and others who would bring their families to town if a good school were built and explained the conditions on which the money was to be borrowed were reasonable.

Mr. Henroth thought local contractors should be given a preference even to the extent of $300. The trustees were agreed to this and decided to call a public meeting when tenders would be opened. However, it was pointed out that other contractors might refuse to tender. Mr. Wakefield, being a contractor, said the local men could take care of themselves, whereupon the preference idea was abandoned.

Messrs. Campbell and Bray moved that the trustees be empowered to go on with the building of the new school as they have outlined as soon as possible. This motion was carried and the meeting adjourned.

Milne in their sad bereavement of their only boy, aged 15 months, last Thursday evening on board the train between here and Medicine Hat, where Mrs. Milne was taking the little one for medical treatment on the advice of Dr. Rose. The child had been ailing for some days, but it was not thought to be so very dangerous, and the news came as a severe shock to the relatives and friends. Mr. Milne proceeded to Medicine Hat that night, where they buried their little boy. One of their little girls was taken ill this week and Mrs. Milne went with her to Medicine Hat Sunday afternoon, but she is reported to be recovering.

New School Building Will Be Rushed

Tuesday was the last day allowed for the ratepayers to ask for a poll on the question of borrowing $12,000 which to build a new school house, and as there was no poll asked for the erection of the new school is now assured. The lay so far has been complied with and there now remains only the formal sanction of the government authorities at Edmonton, which the trustees have already applied for. They have also taken up the matter with the architect who is arranging the final details of the plans and specifications, and they will be prepared to call for tenders by the time they hear from Edmonton. The trustees have also to yet close up the deal to borrow the money and other details to settle. Nevertheless they are confident that the work will soon be under way and completed before the frost sets in. The building of the new school is the one thing most needed in Gleichen at the present time and it will be a credit to the town as well as a valuable asset.

farm products to be placed in an exhibit car and to be run over the Rock Island & C.P.R. lines.

Last Thursday three hobos were given 30 days each by Magistrate Beaupre and two other men got off by being able to show blisters on their hands as a sign that they had been recent toilers.

John Martin, who was thrown from his horse at Rosebud creek several weeks ago, has returned from the Cal hospital, and is able to go about with the aid of a crutch.
